INSURANCE ACTS ARE BEING COMPILED BY COMMISSIONER

NUMEROUS BILLS REGULATING INSURANCE COMPANIES WERE PASSED AT RECENT LEGISLATIVE SESSION—GOVERNOR PARDONS FOUR.

Raleigh, March 14.—Insurance Commissioner Young is busy compiling the insurance laws passed by the late Legislature. Conspicuous among the radical measures offered and defeated were the Koonce resolution for investigation of fire insurance companies; the Devin bill to create an insurance commission to have control of insurance matters including the power of suspending the State regulations when the commission, which was to be composed of the council of State, deemed it advisable; also the Connor bill for an appeal from the rulings of the insurance commissioner to the governor and council of state.

Bills of interest enacted into law included:

Limiting the liability to be assumed by fidelity and surety companies to ten per cent of their assets.

Providing standard provisions for accident and health policies.

Making a re-classification of the different kinds of insurance.

Allowing life insurance companies to deposit notes and mortgages on real estate located outside the state as a part of the reserve securing registered policies.

Enlarging the powers of the insurance commissioner under section 4805 of the revisal in regard to allowing the sale of stocks, bonds or other obligations of any foreign insurance company.

Requiring health, live stocy, marine, leakage and credit insurance policies to be issued and countersigned by the resident agent.

Amending section 4775 of the revisal forbidding the giving or selling or offering as an inducement with life insurance policies any stocks, bonds or other security, or dividend or profit or anything of value not specified in the policy.

Amending the law in regard to deposits by fire insurance companies by giving the insurance commissioner discretion in taking bonds from surety companies and when he deems necessary requiring that surety companies shall deposit securities.

Governor Pardoned Four.

Governor Kitchin granted four pardons today as follows:

Walter Hobbs, convicted at the July term, 1909, Durham Superior Court, of the crime of retailing and sentenced to three years on the roads.

Charles Lindsay, convicted in Anson Superior Court September term, 1908, of the larceny of a mule and sentenced to five years on the roads.

Calvin Moore, convicted of the crime of burglary at the February term, 1907, of Mecklenburg Superior court, and sentenced to seven years in the State's prison.

Henry Lewis, convicted at the November term, 1910, of Pitt Superior court, of retailing and sentenced to six months on the roads.

Charged With Furniture Theft.

Richard Thompson, the young white painter who was arrested Saturday on the charge of breaking into the house of Mr. W. J. Peele and stealing a quantity of furniture, was given a hearing before Judge Stronach in Police court this morning and bound over to Wake Superior court in a $200 bond, in default of which he was committed to jail. Thompson has a brother who is also in jail charged with entering the home of Mr. Brown Shepard two weeks ago and stealing a number of articles of furniture.

Case Workers Meet Here Today

An important meeting of the North Carolina Case Workers Association will be held in Greensboro today. Several matters of importance to the members of the organization will be considered.

Meeting At A. & M. College.

The Health club at the A. and M. College will hold its monthly meeting this evening at 8 o'clock. Dr. T. J. L. Pattle will address the club.

THE TELEGRAM TO HAVE NEW PRESS

NEW MACHINE HAS BEEN PURCHASED AND WILL BE ERECTED BY APRIL FIRST—PAPER TO BE ENLARGED.

The publishers of The Telegram announce that, beginning about the first of April, the paper will be issued in enlarged form. A new and fast press has been purchased and will be installed at once. As soon as the press is in running order The Telegram will be enlarged to seven columns to the page. At present the paper is being issued six columns to the page. The paper will continue to have a regular issue of eight pages, after the enlargement; with more pages when business demands, and with a larger Sunday paper.

The new owners of The Telegram are planning many improvements in the paper, and these improvements will be made as rapidly as additional facilities for conducting the business can be added. In addition to the new press, other machinery and material is to be purchased and the printing plant of The Telegram will be properly equipped for publishing a paper typographically the equal of any in the State. Along with additional equipment there will be additional facilities for gathering the news, including a telegraph service. It is the intention of the publishers of The Telegram to thoroughly cover the local field in the paper's news columns and to print as large amount of State and general news as the average person cares to find in the home paper.

The changes contemplated for the improvement of The Telegram will require some time for completion, and the publishers trust that readers of the paper and the public generally will overlook the paper's defects until the new program can be fully inaugurated.

Samuel G. Golden, Old Citizen, Died Yesterday

Samuel G. Golden, Sr., died last evening at 8:30 o'clock at his home, 430 North Greene street, following an extended illness. Death was caused by a complication of diseases. Mr. Golden was 74 years of age and had resided in Greensboro for the past fifty years. He was a native of Virginia, an ex-Confederate soldier and a respected member of the First Presbyterian church. He was a kindhearted old gentleman and was held in high esteem by all who knew him.

Mr. Golden is survived by the following children: Samuel G. Golden, Jr., of Troy; Mrs. J. M. Upchurch, Mrs. Maggie Morgan, Mrs. N. W. Allred and Henry Golden, of this city.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been perfected, but will be announced later.

His Hens Stolen.

Someone stole eight fine hens from the wagon of John Wray yesterday morning. Mr. Wray left his wagon in the Farmers' Warehouse, the hens being confined in a portable coop on the wagon. When he returned after a brief absence the chickens were gone.

Speaks Reward May be Divided

The county authorities are somewhat in a dilemma regarding the reward offered for the capture of Moses Speaks. The High Point murderer was caught by two Gregory boys in Yadkin county after severely wounding them and in a few minutes Sheriff W. T. Fletcher of Yadkin and two deputies came up and took Speaks in charge. It is agreed by all that the Gregory boys made the arrest but the Yadkin sheriff contends that inasmuch as he drove nearly a hundred miles and actually escorted the man to the nearest town that he should have a portion of the reward. He says he thinks that the following apportionment of the $50 would be about just. Twenty dollars for one Gregory boy and fifteen dollars for the other, dividing the remaining fifteen dollars equally between the three officers. The sheriff reports the two boys as doing nicely. It is likely that the arrangement suggested by the sheriff will be adopted.

OFFICERS OF NORTH CAROLINA WOODMEN ELECTED YESTERDAY

Convention Held Long And Busy Session After Preliminary Meeting--Two Sessions Today And Degree Work Tonight.

The Head Camp of Jurisdiction "W," Woodmen of the World, met in the Junior Order hall yesterday morning at 10 o'clock in bi-ennial session. The delegates present numbered nearly 200 and represented local camps of Woodmen from all over North Carolina.

The convention was called to order by Head Consul Charles, of Charlotte, who announced the opening ode. This was sung with force by the two hundred men present. A prayer, led by Rev. E. A. Page, followed.

The head consul then in a few felicitous remarks introduced Judge N. L. Eure who welcomed the delegates to "Progressive Greensboro"—the city that he said was not quite so large as it used to be—before the U. S. census struck the place—but a city that leads in education, road building, commission form of government and along other lines of endeavor. He was very happy in his remarks and gave the visitors a hearty welcome. He hoped, he said, that the meeting here would prove of mutual advantage to the city and the delegates.

Judge Eure was followed by another distinguished citizen of the State—Major-General B. S. Royster, of Oxford, who responded to the address of welcome. He found pleasure in the statement of Judge Eure's that the policemen were muzzled so far as visiting sovereigns are concerned. He noted, he said, that the local woodmen had provided a "shower" to lay the dust and had done other things to make the stay of the visitors pleasant. He hoped the order represented here did not boast alone of its age or money but did boast of its mission of planting flowers of joy and hopefulness where sadness was. The speaker held his hearers spellbound for a time and in closing admonished the delegates to take back home something to help a weaker brother.

Sovereign Manager E. B. Lewis also responded to the address of welcome, on the part of the rank and file of the delegates, those who had given up, for the time being, their vocations and come together to transact the business of the order they love. He mentioned as some of the good things Woodcraft was doing in North Carolina the carrying of bonds. They have $100,000 in Guilford's roads, $50,000 in Greensboro's streets, are building roads in forty-two counties, school houses in twenty-six counties, and municipal buildings in thirty-one towns. The order has $12,000,000 invested in securities like this. The speaker described the marching forward of the 563,000 Woodmen. His humorous hits at some of the delegates were much enjoyed. He closed with a beautiful picture of the Temple of Humanity in which he hoped the members of his order were proving worthy builders.

Mr. Lewis' address closed the formal speechmaking and the convention got down to business.

Committees were announced as follows:

Resolutions: Gen. B. S. Royster, Oxford; L. L. Tilley, Durham; J. N. Price, Morganton.

Entertainment: H. O. Sapp, Winston; J. H. Dortin, Concord; A. G. Wells,

NORMAL TRUSTEES ACCEPTED THE NEW INFIRMARY

Splendid Building at State Institution Finished—to be Furnished at Once—Guilford Medical Society Will Inspect Building.

The infirmary recently completed at the State Normal and Industrial College was thoroughly inspected by Chairman T. B. Bailey, of Mocksville, and R. T. Gray, of Raleigh, members of the board of trustees of the college, yesterday. Accompanied by President Foust, Architect Hook and Supt. Tessier the trustees visited every room in the building and examined the various details of construction and at the conclusion of their tour of inspection announced themselves as well pleased with the job. There are one or two small jobs to be finished, but these are at places where the work can be done at any time. The trustees decided to accept the building.

The work of furnishing the building will be commenced at once. Each room will be fitted simply but with a view to the comfort of the patients. At first each room will have a hospital bed and a chair and later other furniture may be added. It is hoped to have the furnishings installed by the latter part of the week.

On next Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock the infirmary will be thrown open to the members of the Guilford Medical Society and members of the college faculty will assist Dr. Gove, the resident physician, in entertaining the guests.

The infirmary is one of the most complete buildings of its kind to be found anywhere in the South. Every detail for the convenience and comfort of the patients was planned for in its erection and the entire structure is finished with sanitary material. The doors are of solid wood, veneered, and the knobs are of glass. All pipes and wires are exposed as much as possible. The floors of the first and second stories are hard wood, while on the third story the floors are of hard pine, painted. The basement is of cement. The corners of the rooms are rounded as are the edges of the flooring around the walls, this being for the purpose of preventing dust from accumulating in the corners.

The building is just in the rear of the present infirmary on College avenue and the Student's building, fronting College avenue. It is three stories in height with a basement. There are porches on the first and second floors. There are also porches at each end of the building. The building is amply equipped with fire escapes, there being three broad flights of iron steps from the upper floors to the ground. In addition to the main building there is an annex of two stories, connected by two sun parlors. The entire building is steam-heated and in addition there is a fireplace in every patient's room. There are two or more windows to every room. On each floor there are shower and tub baths, toilets, lavatories, etc. A telephone connects every department with the main office and the kitchen.

The basement of the building is for servants' rooms. An incinerary and disinfecting room and a number of storage rooms are in the basement also.

The main floor is entered from the front porch, which is reached by a flight of steps from the ground. First is the reception hall, then the passageway or hall proper. Turning to the left one enters the business room and passes into the consulting room, where the college physician will have her office with the pharmacy room adjoining. Just across the hall will be a waiting room for students who call to consult the

THE GREATER NUMBER OF NEWSPAPERS ARE NOT WHOLLY BAD.

Rev. A. Eugene Bartlett, a Chicago minister, has discovered that all newspapers are not wholly bad. It must be admitted that some of them are; that there is published here and there a newspaper which is unworthy of the confidence or respect of good citizens; but the average standard of newspaper conduct in this country is high, and it has been steadily going higher for years.

The majority of newspapers deal honestly and fairly with men, events, principles and policies in the publishing of news and in their editorial conduct. It is the desire of the men who own or control them to print the truth, to give the public honest service and to maintain a free, independent and unbiased editorial page.

Perhaps this condition of affairs will be found to prevail to a greater extent in the South than elsewhere. In the great cities of the country there are subsidized newspapers, owned outright or controlled by special interests and conducted for commercial, political or other special purposes. These newspapers are made to serve their bosses, regardless of right and justice. The fact that the South has few large cities and has not been wholly given over to the control of mad commercialism has probably contributed largely to the maintenance of a free press in this section. Notwithstanding this it is a fact that there are several newspapers published in the South which are known to be subsidized by special interests.

It was not this particular phase of newspaper publishing to which the Chicago divine had reference, however. His study of newspapers led to the conclusion, he announced in a sermon from the pulpit, that the newspapers could answer the question as to whether the world is growing better or worse; and that the papers, by spreading knowledge, are doing more to weld humanity together in a common brotherhood than any other single agency. The Chicago pastor's thoughtful remarks are worthy of consideration, and are reproduced herewith:

"I ask the question, Is the world growing better or worse? and look to the nation's newspapers for my answer. We very often go to the Bible to answer our questions as to the trend of humanity, and we do well to do that; "Jesus looked to the sacred writings of his time, and also to nature and man. He studied passing events and noticed the signs of the times. The Bible is quite largely a prophecy; it paints a kingdom to come, while the newspapers deal with passing events that are making history here and now.

"The newspapers, by their spread of information, are doing more to weld the world together into a great brotherhood, doing more to overcome sectional prejudice than any other single agency outside the school and church.

"The last week I have been reading newspapers from all sections of our country, seeking an answer to the question I have put. The biggest and blackest type has not usually been given to the events I reckoned most important. We need to learn how to read a newspaper and not to accept the verdict of the editors as to what is important. The real signs of progress—the big events for the kingdom of God—I usually found in small type and without flaring headlines. Do not neglect hereafter the corners and out-of-the-way places in your daily reading. Often in the little, fine-print items you will find events of transcendent importance.

"These are the evidences I find in the newspapers that the world is growing better. In every paper the conclusion was brought home to me, based upon many facts, that human life is every year growing more sacred. An increase of rightly directed and intelligent charity is to be noted. There are evidences that conscience is growing more sensitive to eternal distinctions of right and wrong. Frequent acknowledgements are found in the nation's papers of our obligations to family, church and God."

"THE INTERESTS" VERSUS THE RIGHT.

The Durham Herald is pessimistic regarding the outlook for work by a Democratic Congress. The Herald says the people want tariff reform but do not expect the Democrats to give it to them. This view of the matter may or may not be the correct one. Time will tell. However, if the Democrats fail to do all in their power to give the country tariff reform, they will miss a cess of the party.

It remains to be seen, however, just how much a Democratic House can accomplish working in conjunction with a Republican Senate. The period was, and only a few years ago, when it would have been a foregone conclusion that a Republican Senate would effectually block all reform measures proposed by a Democratic House; but it is believed now by those citizens who are hoping that the best interests of the country may be conserved, that insurgent Republican Senators will vote with Democrats for tariff reform and other reforms. If this hope proves to be well founded, the country will be treated to tariff revision downward and to other measures needful for the prosperity of the masses and to secure them in their rights against the inroads of the privileged few.

The Telegram makes the prediction that when the fight in Congress for tariff reform narrows down to the question of right versus the wishes of the "interests" there are several alleged Democrats in the House and Senate who will be found voting with the "standpat" Republicans for the purely selfish interests of their owners.

Wanted: More Scotchmen.

Under the State Constitution, the Board of Agriculture and Immigration was established. For some years the department was active in trying to secure immigrants, but the success was not great, and that part of the constitutional requirement has not been pressed by the department. It has ample funds to advertise the State and secure immigrants, and it is to be hoped that this needed work will be pressed more. At the next meeting of the board, plans for securing immigrants should be adopted. With little effort on the part of the authorities now, there continues to come now and then immigrants from Scotland. Saturday's Fayetteville Observer had this local item:

"Mr. F. H. G. Balfour, a young Scotchman, who is employed on Capt. J. D. Maloy's plantation at Lumber Bridge, was in town yesterday afternoon to meet his brother, Mr. T. E. B. G. Balfour, who arrived here on the 4:30 A. C. L. train, coming straight from the old country to accept a position similar to his brother's. These sturdy young Scotchmen, if they stick to it, will some day be among our most prosperous farmers."

A large section of North Carolina has so many Scotchmen that one county is called Scotland, and the Macs are as numerous as the sands on the seashore. They came to this State early, and there has been no race suicide among the Scotchmen in North Carolina. We wish we had more of these sturdy and fine young men from Scotland, and every effort should be put forth to induce them to come.—Charlotte Observer.

The Newspaper Man.

Our eyes are thick for slumber and
Our brains are tired and stale;
Nerves we have none to speak of, yet
we never dare to fail.
There are always cries for "copy,"
and they never cry in vain,
For the Press' need is cruel and reeks not of our pain.

Through the endless summer evening when we should be with our wives,
We are endlessly recording all the tales of other lives.
We recount the deeds of heroes; there are new ones every day;
Or are revelling in scandal for—about a teamster's pay.

We greet the new-fledged statesman;
self-important, green, elate;
We warn the politicans what to do to save the State;
We clink glasses with good fellows:
yet we've got to keep our head
For the scandals of the living and the virtues of the dead.

There are some that seem to envy the positions that we hold,
To think that our typewriters are like pens of beaten gold;
For we still keep happy faces—
though our homes we seldom see,
And the smiles of wife and children are denied to such as we.

But I guess we'll keep on going; take assignments; do the work;
We may loaf, or drink, or gamble,
but our tasks we may not shirk;
For it's in our blood—the fever—and we die off one by one—
But the Press goes on forever, for its work is never done.

In a little restaurant where the waiter insists upon slamming down your plate or saucer, a man had ordered a sandwich and a cup of coffee. Then he decided to put an addendum to his order.

"Gimme a plate o' that country sausage, too," he told the waiter.

Just then the accident happened.

Somebody stepped on the tail of a small, anaemic loking yellow dog that had followed another customer into the restaurant. The dog gave three staccato yelps.

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR

A Dream and Its Sequel.

"In one of the East Indian border wars there was engaged an officer of high repute, the member of an ancient county family," says Mrs. Mayo in "Recollections of Fifty Years." One night the laird, its head, started from his sleep, exclaiming:

"'There's the shot that has killed my brother!'

"His wife told him it was but a dream. He must have given an anxious thought to his brothers before going to sleep. Next day the pair were in the garden directing their gardeners when the laird suddenly exclaimed:

"'Do you hear the bagpipes?'

"'No,' answered the lady. 'I can hear nothing. I am sure there is no sound.'

"'Strange,' said the laird, 'for I can even hear what is played. It is "The Flowers o' the Forest Are A' Wefe Away."'

"A few hours later came the telegram reporting that the brother had been shot down by some border warrior and over his lonely grave the men of his regiment had played the pathetic air whose mysterious echo seemed to have reached the laird."

Shakespeare's Definition of Poetry.

What a pity it is that Shakespeare ever used that phrase "fine frenzy!" It has become a fuddlesome factor in the framing of foolish fancies. It is to the honor of Shakespeare, however, that he came nearer to giving the world the true definition of poetry than has any other man, for he did explain what constitutes the true art of poetry making, and from this we are enabled to know what Shakespeare considered poetry. Curiously enough, it is in the very passage where Shakespeare uses that unfortunate phrase "fine frenzy." Let us quote:

The poet's eye, in a fine frenzy rolling,
Doth glance from heaven to earth, from earth to heaven,
And as imagination bodies forth
The forms of things unknown the poet's pen
Turns them to shapes and gives to airy nothing
A local habitation and a name.

DAY 762. PHONES NIGHT 1442

Private Brainard's Ruse

By DOROTHY R. MURRAY

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

Tom Brainard was always full of Old Nick. He was at the bottom of all the mischief done at school, and when he was at college got into so many scrapes that at the end of his sophomore year the president informed him he needn't come back the next term.

Tom's father put him into a business concern, but the boy soon proved that he was as unfit for business as for study. Sitting on a high stool all day adding columns of figures was not to Tom's taste. He soon got discharged for inattention to his work, and then his father was at his wits' end to know what to do with him. Tom said he'd like to be a soldier, so his father went to Washington to try to get him a commission, but was told there that if his son wanted a commission he had better enlist and work his way up from the ranks.

Tom enlisted and, though he took to soldiering better than anything else, was constantly transgressing the army regulations and consequently getting himself into trouble. He enlisted in the cavalry and was sent out with his regiment to a two company post in the west. The only people to fight were Indians, and at the time of Tom's arrival they were peaceful.

Fort B., where Tom's company was stationed, was near a hamlet that has since become a large town. The fort was intended as a point of observation for a tribe of Indians whose reservation was but a few miles away. Tom served a year at the fort, one-third of which was spent in the guardhouse. He was known by the officers to be a gentleman and his offenses were not serious; indeed, he was rather an annoyance than otherwise. So finally his captain told him that if he would leave the army he would guarantee his discharge. But Tom declined. He said he had come into the service for a commission and intended to stay there till he got one.

Soon after this the Indians broke loose from their reservation and went about murdering settlers wherever they could find them. The savages numbered several thousand warriors, and the troops in the fort numbered sixty-two. The "great father" had put a force down near the Indians just big enough for them to eat up when they got ready.

One day there was consternation in the fort. The Indians were coming to attack it, and if they did they would doubtless take it and kill everybody in it, including women and children. Besides, many of the people from the little town or settlement near by had come in, the merchants bringing their stocks of goods and all bringing their household belongings.

As the Indians approached the soldiers went out to meet them, the major in command hoping to pacify rather than to fight them. Six hundred Indians attacked him, and after a scrimmage several redskins, including their chief, were killed. When the chief fell the Indians drew off, though it was known that they would renew the fight with redoubled fierceness. After dark the troops withdrew to the fort and shut themselves in.

That night was a fearful one in the inclosure, death staring every one in the face. It was known that re-enforcements had been sent from Leavenworth, but it would require several days for them to make the march. Tom Brainard told his captain that he had a plan. He was conducted to the major commanding and proposed it. The major had no confidence in it, but permitted Tom to try it.

A stock of cigars and tobacco had been brought into the fort, including a wooden Indian that an enterprising tobacconist had brought from St. Louis. The Indian was sitting with a calumet in his mouth. Tom bored a hole through the back of the neck and put a real pipe in the Indian's mouth. Then he introduced a tube into the hole he had bored, so that by sucking on the tube the Indian would appear to smoke.

Tom told his commander what his plan was and asked him as soon as it was light the next morning to convene all the officers at the fort on the parapet, put the wooden Indian in the circle and have some one concealed pull on the tube at the back of his head, the pipe having been lighted. He wished them all to appear to be in council.

This being understood, Tom rode out with an escort and a white flag. The Indians met him, and he told them that the spirit of their chief had come into the fort and made peace. The Indians were incredulous. They had the chief's body. Tom offered to show him to them at the fort smoking with the officers. They rode with him to the fort, arriving early in the morning. Tom would not permit them to come within a quarter of a mile of the post, but this was near enough for them to see the wooden Indian sitting on the rampart in a circle of officers blowing clouds of smoke. The Indians, astonished, rode away and spread the news to all the tribe.

That was the end of the uprising. Soon after Tom's ruse the new chief came to the fort and ratified the peace made by his predecessor.

Tom, in recognition of his services in saving the lives of the garrison, was promoted to be a commissioned officer, and a very good one he made too.

SACKING A THEATER.

Tribulations of the Drama In New York In 1765.

Here is an account of the sacking of a theater in New York from the Gazette of May 3, 1765:

"The play advertised to be acted last Monday evening having given offense to sundry and divers inhabitants of this city, who thought it highly improper that such entertainments should be exhibited at this time of public distress, when great numbers of poor people can scarce find means of subsistence, whereby many persons might be tempted to neglect their business and squander that money which is necessary to the payment of their debts and the support of their families, a rumor was spread about the town that if the play went on the audience would meet with some disturbance from the multitude.

"This prevented the greatest part of those who intended to have been there from going. However, many people came, and the play was begun, but soon interrupted by the multitude, who burst open the doors and entered with noise and tumult. The audience escaped in the best manner they could. Many lost their hats and other articles of raiment. A boy had his skull fractured and was yesterday trepanned. Death is his. Several others were sorely set upon and injured. But we heard of no lives lost. The multitude immediately demolished the house, carried the pieces to the common, where they consumed them in a bonfire."

The Word "Gaiters."

Episcopal gaiters cannot date from a very remote antiquity. The very word "gaiters" is almost a newcomer to the language. Johnson's Dictionary does not recognize its existence. It does not occur before 1760, and even in 1802 a military dictionary had to define it as "a sort of spatterdashes." "Guetre," however, the French original, goes back at least to the fifteenth century, and the origin of that is lost, though etymologists compare all sorts of words in all sorts of languages, including an old German word for a baby's christening cloth. The one certainty is that gaiters has nothing to do with gait in spite of the punning line in the "Rejected Addresses"—"Lax in their gaiters, laxer in their gait."—London Standard.

The Self Sacrifice of Fadzeau.

A fine historical dog story is recalled by Mr. Edwin Noble in "The Dog Lover's Book." The incident is connected with the flight of William Wallace to the mountains after Erneside, accompanied by only sixteen followers, among whom was one named Fadzeau. When the baying of the bloodhounds was heard announcing the coming of the English Fadzeau refused to go any farther, affecting weariness, and Wallace, suspecting him of traitorous intentions, killed him. When the English came up the hounds stayed upon the dead body and refused to follow beyond the stains of blood.

He Beat Her.

A woman said to the railway station ticket agent angrily:

"Look here, sir, I've been standing before this window twenty-five minutes!"

The agent, a gray, withered little man, answered gently:

"Ah, madam, I've been standing behind it twenty-five years."

Medical Men of Eighth Council District Meet

Winston-Salem, March 14.—Quite a number of prominent physicians from the surrounding counties are here to attend the first annual meeting of the Eighth Council District Medical Society which convened this morning at 10:30 o'clock in the Board of Trade assembly hall. The district is composed of ten counties.

About fifty physicians, including local physicians and nurses, were present at the opening session this morning.

The address of welcome was delivered by Dr. E. A. Lockett and Dr. H. B. Hiatt, of Asheboro, responded.

Splendid papers of peculiar interest to the medical fraternity were read by four physicians. Dr. T. W. Davis, of this city, read a splendid paper on "The Throat Specialist in Preventive Medicine." Other able papers were read as follows: "Conservative Surgery of the Uterine Appendages," by Dr. H. Stokes Lott, of this city; "Gastro-Intestinal Manifestations of Latent Malaria," by Dr. H. B. Hiatt, of Asheboro; and "Headaches," by Dr. W. P. Reaves, of Greensboro.

The Society adjourned at 1:15 for a recess and convened again at 2:30. The following program was carried out this afternoon:

"Pathology of Tubercular Joints," Dr. W. F. Cole, of Greensboro.

"Tubercular Peritonitis," Dr. J. W. White, of Wilkesboro.

"Surgical Tuberculosis," Dr. C. C. Hubbard, of Farmer.

"Recent Observations on Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat," Dr. M. A. Royal, of Yadkinville.

"Hook Worm Disease with Report of Cases," Dr. W. P. Horton, of North Wilkesboro.

"Tubercular Joints," Dr. J. A. Williams, of Greensboro.

"Cancer—A Duty the Doctors Owe the People," Dr. W. O. Spencer, of this city.

Paper, by Dr. J. W. McGeehee, of Reidsville.

General discussion led by Dr. W. P. Beall, of Greensboro.

A social session followed the completion of the program.

Alleged Night Rider on Trial.

Hopkinsville, Ky., March 14.—During the cross-examination of witnesses in the trial of Dr. Davis Amos, alleged night rider leader, the prosecution today laid a foundation for testimony tending to show that the defendant led a whitecap raid in 1888 when one man was killed and another wounded; that he fled the state but afterwards was pardoned, then returned and gave testimony upon which other members of the band were indicted.

An Unkissed Husband.

Boston, March 14.—Married ten years and never kissed. Arthur H. Tower, of South Boston, is the unlucky individual who has been married ten years and has never been kissed. His wife, Emily, is authority for the statement.

Rocky Mount.

Distribution: J. D. Boone, Waynesville; J. W. Gulledge, Wadesboro; W. L. Matthews, Drumbill.

The credential committee made a complete report which for its excellency has scarcely been excelled.

The convention decided to forego the pleasure of the banquet scheduled for this evening, but the local Woodmen will give the visitors a car ride during the afternoon.

The afternoon session was one of importance. Head Consul Charles made his report with several important recommendations. It showed the order to be in excellent condition and growing rapidly.

A number of resolutions were introduced and referred to the proper committees.

Communications of fraternal greetings were read from the local Knights of Pythias and the Texas Head Camp of Woodmen. A message of welcome was also received from the local Chamber of Commerce.

Officers were elected as follows:

Delegate to Sovereign Camp at Rochester, N. Y.—G. F. Wise, of Salisbury; Alternate—T. N. Hall, of Mooresville.

Head Consul—H. C. V. Peebles, of Kinston.

Head Advisor—T. A. Windley, of Trenton.

Head Banker—J. W. Fleet, of Wilmington.

Head Clerk—Rev. G. A. Page, of Charlotte.

No night session was held. The convention will have two sessions today and will see the exemplification of the degree work tonight. All Woodmen are invited to the sessions of the Head Camp, especially to the exhibition of the degree work.

Officers May Go to Texas

Capt. E. D. Kuykendall, of the Guilford Grays, and Major S. Glenn Brown have filed with the governor a request that they be sent to Texas as representatives of the State troops to participate in the maneuvers of the United States troops on the frontier. It is understood that the government will send down a number of officers from each State to participate in the army work for the purpose of being instructed in regular service. This is for the purpose of making the officers in each state more efficient in their work of instructing the several companies over which they have command. If the local officers are appointed they will most likely be ordered to Texas at any time.

Amending His Constitution.

A well known attorney of heavy build and pompous to a degree that frequently reaches the state of being overbearing was leaving his office in a Broad street building the other day. With his high hat on and carrying a walking stick, he had stepped upon the sidewalk when he slipped and landed flat upon the pavement with a thud that shocked him as well as caused embarrassment.

Just then another attorney who enjoys an equal distinction in the legal world passed and laughed at the fallen lawyer. When the latter was trying to get up he remarked to the other:

"I guess I am getting old. My constitution will not stand what it did years ago."

As he arose to his feet his friend facetiously remarked, "Well, then, Dick, you ought to get an amendment to your constitution."

Looking at his friend with a cold stare, as cold as the ice he had fallen upon, he asked:

"Well, what kind of an amendment would you suggest, if you know so much?"

"I don't know exactly," was the reply. "I don't give advice to my clients without some kind of a retainer, but as you are an old friend of mine I would suggest a cushion or a mattress."—Minneapolis Journal.

Salt Water Cataracts.

There are a good many salt water cataracts in existence. They may be found in Norway, southern Chile and British Columbia, where narrow fiords, or arms of the sea, are obstructed by barriers of rock. The rising tide flows over and filters through such reefs into the great natural reservoirs beyond, but the water is held back at the ebb until it breaks over the obstruction in an irresistible torrent. Most curious of all is the waterfall at Canoe Passage, where the island of Vancouver approaches the British Columbia mainland. Here the flood tide from the gulf of Georgia to the southward is held back at a narrow cleft between two islands until it pours over in a boiling cascade eighteen feet high, with perhaps double the volume of the Rhine. At the turn of the tide, however, the waters from the north rush back into the gulf, producing a cascade of equal height and volume. The waterfall actually flows both ways.

In the Spring.

The country schoolteacher had been telling her scholars about the seasons and their peculiarities, and to impress their minds with the facts she questioned them upon the points she had given. Several queries had been put, and finally she reached the stupid boy in the corner.

"Well, Johnny," she said, "have you been paying attention?"

"Yes'm," he answered promptly.

"I'm glad to hear it. Now, can you tell me what there is in the spring?"

"Yes'm, I can, but I don't want to."

"Oh, yes, you do. Don't be afraid. You have heard the others. Be a good boy, now, and tell us what there is in the spring."

"W'y—w'y—mum, there's a frog an' a lizard an' a dead cat in it, but I didn't put 'em there. It was another boy, for I seen him do it."—Exchange.

Sending a Man to Coventry.

The expression "sending to Coventry" had a military origin. It arose, so it is said, in the days of Charles I., when the inhabitants of Coventry strongly objected to any intercourse with the military quartered in their town, and a woman known to speak to a man in a scarlet cloak was at once the subject of scandal. So rigid were the natives that the soldier was confined to the mess room for conversation. Thus the term "sending a man to Coventry" if you wished to shut him from society took root in the English language.—London Chronicle.

New Buildings at State Normal

The Legislature during the recent session made an annual appropriation of $25,000 annually for the extension work of the State Normal and Industrial College, making $100,000 available for new buildings within the next four years. While the trustees have not yet discussed the matter at any length it is believed that half this amount will go into a dormitory and the remainder will be used to complete the McIver Science building. The trustees do not contemplate building this year as only $25,000 will be available until next year and they want to put about $50,000 in the dormitory building, thus accommodating about 130 additional students. This building will be erected before the work of completing the Science building is attempted.

WHY HE DOES IT.

Druggist Howard Gardner Gives Reasons for Selling at Half-Price.

"It isn't often that I have faith enough in the medicines put up by other people to be willing to offer to refund the money if it does not cure," said druggist Gardner to one of his many customers, "but I am glad to sell Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia on that plan.

"The Dr. Howard Co., in order to get a quick introductory sale authorized us to sell the regular fifty cent bottle of their specific for half-price, 25 cents, and although I have sold a lot of it, and guaranteed every package, not one has been brought back as unsatisfactory.

"I am still selling the specific at half-price, although I cannot tell how long I shall be able to do so. Any person who is subject to constipation, sick headache, dizziness, liver trouble, indigestion or a general played out condition, ought to take advantage of this opportunity. If the specific does not cure them, they can come right back to Gardner's store, and I will cheerfully refund their money.

MOUNTAINEER GUARDED BOOZE WITH TWO GUNS

A big, brawny mountaineer from the mountains of Wilkes alighted from the Wilkesboro train last night carrying under his arms two double barrel shot guns. He immediately made his way to the baggage room where he produced a check for a small trunk, which gave two men almost as much as they could carry. The big mountaineer called a carriage driver to take the trunk and its owner, along with the guns, to some place in town.

Standing near at the time was a special officer of the Southern, whose suspicion was aroused at the remarkable weight of the little trunk. As the carriage driver went to lift the trunk into the carriage the man warned him to be especially careful with the burden, and with an oath told the negro if he dropped it there would be something doing around there. Then the special officer stepped up and reminded the negro that if he carried the trunk away he would make it hot for him. The carriage driver let go his burden and the big mountaineer was left on the sidewalk outside the depot standing guard beside the trunk with his two big guns.

Mr. Special Officer hastened to police headquarters in search of a policeman, but they were all out on other duties at the time. When no policeman could be found the special officer, accompanied by the reporter, trembling as he thought of the big shot guns, rushed back to the depot with the hope of detaining the fellow until a policeman could be found. But much to the regret of the special officer and to the joy of the reporter, the man with the guns and the trunk full of booze, which he guarded so jealously, was not to be found. Now the special officer stakes his reputation as a detective that the trunk was full of mountain dew, fresh from the caves of Wilkes.

It was learned at the depot that the fellow had finally secured a carriage driver to take him somewhere in the city, and it is presumed that his object is to retail the stuff that he had brought with him in the trunk.—Winston-Salem Journal.

A Fierce Night Alarm

is the hoarse, startling cough of a child, suddenly attacked by croup. Often it aroused Lewis Chamblin of Manchester, O., (R. R. No. 2) for their four children were greatly subject to croup. "Sometimes in severe attacks," he wrote "we were afraid they would die, but since we proved what a certain remedy Dr. King's New Discovery is, we have no fear. We rely on it for croup and for coughs, colds or any throat or lung trouble." So do thousands of others. So may you. Asthma, Hay Fever, LaGrippe, Whooping Cough, Hemorrhages fly before it, 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Sold by Fariss-Klutz Drug Co.

Warning to Railroad Men

Look out for severe and even dangerous kidney and bladder trouble resulting from years of railroading. Geo. E. Bell, 639 Third St., Fort Wayne, Ind., was many years a conductor on the Nickel Plate. He says: "Twenty years of railroading left my kidneys in terrible condition. There was a continual pain across my back and hips and my kidneys gave me much distress, and the action of my bladder was frequent and most painful. I got a supply of Foley Kidney Pills and the first bottle made a wonderful improvement and four bottles cured me completely. Since being cured I have recommended Foley Kidney Pills to many of my railroad friends." Howard Gardner.

Governor Survived in Good Shape.

Durham, March 14.—Governor and Mrs. W. W. Kitchin were here yesterday afternoon from Raleigh on their way to their old home in Roxboro where Mr. Kitchin winds up the Yancey estate.

The governor appeared none the worse for having had the legislature on his hands and he spoke of it as having a very capable and energetic body. The amount of local work that it did he thought unusual. He will spend a day or two in Roxboro before returning to Raleigh.

Will Attempt to Segregate Negroes in New Orleans

New Orleans, La., March 14.—District Attorney Adams will probably draw a bill to segregate the negroes in New Orleans into a district all their own. This bill will be introduced into the next session of the Louisiana Legislature. It will carry with it a provision that negroes and whites will be separated at the passage of carnival parades.

Mr. Adams' statement was made when he was asked whether he thought the plan of Rev. J. B. Lawrence, expressed in his sermon Sunday, to segregate whites and negroes during the Mardi Gras parades was feasible.

"I agree with the reverend doctor," said Mr. Adams, "that the plan is not only feasible, but is necessary. I shall probably introduce such a bill into the next session of the Legislature.

"Baltimore had such a law, but it was declared unconstitutional in the courts. However, that law was very loosely drawn. If I introduce the segregation bill of which I have been thinking for some time, the details will be so planned that the law will be constitutional.

"The need for segregation in New Orleans has been evident for some time. We need such a law. The negroes should not be allowed to live in the same districts as the white people. Fully 70 per cent. of all crime committed is the work of negroes."

Police Inspector Reynolds declined to be interviewed on the feasibility of separating whites and negroes at carnival parades.

JUST Rheumacide IT CURES

Rheumatism and Blood Diseases

The cause of rheumatism is excess uric acid in the blood. To cure rheumatism this acid must be expelled from the system. Rheumatism is an internal disease and requires an internal remedy. Rubbing with oils and liniments may ease the pain, but they will do no more cure rheumatism than paint will change the fiber of rotten wood.

Cures Rheumatism To Stay Cured.

Science has discovered a perfect and complete cure called Rheumacide. Tested in hundreds of cases, it has effected marvelous cures. Rheumacide removes the cause, gets at the joints from the inside, sweeps the poisons out of the system, tones up the stomach, regulates the bowels and kidneys. Sold by druggists at 50c. and $1; in the tablet form at 25c. and 50c., by mail. Booklet free. Bobbitt Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

A WOMAN TO BE PRETTY

Must Have Luxuriant and Glossy Hair, No Matter What Color.

The finest contour of a female face, the sweetest smile of a female mouth, loses something if the head is crowned with scant hair. Scant and falling hair, it is now known, is caused by a parasite that burrows into the scalp to the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality. The little white scales the germ throws up in its growing are called dandruff. To cure dandruff permanently, then, and to stop falling hair, that germ must be killed. Newbro's Herpicide, an entirely new result of the chemical laboratory, destroys the dandruff germ, and, of course, stops the falling hair, and prevents baldness. Sold by leading druggists. CITY PLANNING ON LARGE SCALE DISCUSSED IN PHILADELPHIA

Philedelphia, Pa., March 14.—At the afternoon session of the City-Wide Congress Frank Miles Day discussed "City Planning." He said in part:

"I take it to be my duty this afternoon to broadly treat the subject of city planning and to give, if I may, some notion of its course in history, of the wide field that it covers and of its significance at the present time. And indeed, the present is a peculiarly fortunate time for such a survey, for never before has the movement as a whole and in its details had so complete a presentation as of late, and especially at the World-Wide Town Planning Conference recently held in London.

"We have a habit of regarding problems that press upon us at any given moment as peculiarly our own. The world is pleased to think of systematic city planning as of a quite recent invention, and to be sure, in many of its phases it is quite new, but it is well to be reminded that at all times and in all countries where there have been cities they have forced their problems so urgently on man as to make him heed them or suffer from them.

"We, who are staggered by the cost of widening streets, of cutting diagonal avenues, of carving out new city squares, think ourselves confronted by an essentially modern problem. If our memory runs that far we are quite sure that the first example of such a thing was the Haussmannizing of Paris. But Julius Caesar, with many another task on hand, grappled successfully with the problem of improving at great cost the communications between the Forum Romanum and the northern parts of the city, and of regulating the course of the Tiber.

"We could scarcely expect from the dark ages that follow the overthrow of the Roman Empire any intelligent effort to improve the conditions of dwellers in towns and cities, but from mediaeval times, brilliant in so many arts, we might suppose there would come some greater evidence of thought of the town's plan as a whole than can be found. Yet even the Middle Ages are not without their lessons. It is the German town-planners who have sought out and applied those lessons to modern conditions.

"It would be hopeless for us today to attempt to consider the detail of even the underlying principles of the many branches of our subject. Perhaps we will profit most largely by an example of each of the branches that are the most important just now for us in America.

"No plan of any present-day city of consequence includes, as a matter of original design, any definite provision of space for the up-to-date highway—the railway. The main road of this age is not the common street or avenue—it is the railroad. There is no important city in the world not even the prearranged Washington of Captain L'Enfant, whose ground plan was drawn to provide for railways of any sort.

These have had, therefore, to force their way as best they could into cities never designed to receive them. Such provision for traffic must naturally work havoc and be always behind the demand. Thus steam railroads cross one another in dangerous and expensive fashion, throw ugly low viaducts over our streets and often obtrude themselves otherwise in unfit and inconvenient places. Thus thundering electric cars go flying along in streets never intended for such use. Thus ugly elevated railways roar above our heads, where no such use of space was ever intended originally. Still worse, accommodation always lags behind the need, while its very means are often a nuisance.

"I cannot show you a typical solution of the traffic problem, for it has not been solved. Each city has its own questions, each must work out its own answer.

"The civic centre is a new name for an old thing. Its germ is the country cross roads, its further development is the New England green, with its meeting house, town hall, courthouse and later its library and postoffice grouped around it. The same thing on a larger scale is one of the aspirations of many an American town today.

"Great cities, beside their main civic centres, like Cleveland's magnificent scheme, should have their subsidiary centres where schoolhouses, branch libraries, fire stations, local centres, etc., should be effectively grouped about some open space, say a minor square or a playground. Or there may be groups of various character in different parts of a great city—one political, another commercial, another educational, etc.

Such secondary or neighborhood centres lead the mind to the recreation centre. This need of modern cities is met in the fullest and most satisfactory way in Chicago, whence I shall draw my example. In the South Park district alone there are 17 such centres, places in open spaces varying from a mere square of four acres up to a well-developed park of 60 acres.

The recreation centre leads us to park systems—that form of civic improvement that has made perhaps the greatest progress of any in America. Everywhere we see them springing up under the favor of the people. No propressive city is without some provision of this sort."

Attacks School Principal.

A severe attack on school principal, Chas. B. Allen, of Sylvania, Ga., is thus told by him. "For more than three years," he writes, "I suffered indescribable torture from rheumatism, liver and stomach trouble and diseased kidneys. All remedies failed till I used Electric Bitters, but four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me completely." Such results are common. Thousands bless them for curing stomach trouble, female complaints, kidney disorders, biliousness, and for new health and vigor. Try them. Only 50c. at Fariss-Klutz Drug Co.

Etiquette and Danger.

"Ezra," said the farmer's wife, "I wish you wouldn't lean your elbers on th' table."

"Huh," sneered the farmer, "gettin' fastiderous, ain't you? Mebby you'll be warnin' me next to keep my knife outen my mouth an' tellin' me not to cool my tea in my sasser. But my granther kep' his elbers on th' table, an' so did my father, an', by heck, I'm goin' to lean on it as hard an' as long as I dun please, so there!"

Whereupon he leaned hard, so hard that the ancient table suddenly collapsed and sprawled out its legs and went down with a frightful crash of crockery.

"Well, you've gone an' done it now!" screamed the old lady. "That's a pretty mess, ain't it? Ef you'd had th' sense of a chipmunk you'd have knowed th' reason I didn't want you to lean on th' table wuz 'cause th' legs wuz rickety. An' I guess a little etiquette wouldn't hurt you none anyway, Ezra Doolittle, to say nothin' of savin' $2 wuth of family crockery."

And the disgusted farmer stumbled out from the scene of wreckage and chased a harmless tramp three miles down the road with an ax handle.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Handicapped.

Englishmen use their hands comparatively little in conversation, but Frenchmen use them a good deal. Quaintly enough, Parisians have a very keen sense of the exaggerated way in which the southern Frenchman and the Italian help on what they have to say with their hands, and this accounts for the following story:

An Italian railway thief was caught redhanded in the train, handcuffed and brought to Paris. As he was walking out of the Gare de Lyon between two detectives a friend met him.

"Hello!" he said. "Where have you been this long time, and how are you?"

The prisoner looked at him pathetically and shook his head.

"What's the matter?" said his friend. "Have you been stricken dumb?"

The prisoner raised his handcuffed hands. "Very nearly," he said.—London M. A. P.

ANGRY FLAMES DEVOUR HUNDREDS OF ANIMALS.

Fort Worth, Texas, March 14.—Nearly two acres of stock sheds burned today, roasting to death between 500 and 1,000 head of horses, sheep and hogs and seriously burning four men. The value of the dead animals is estimated at about $250,000 and the property loss $50,000.

Large numbers of blooded animals which were here for exhibition today at the fat stock show, the biggest exhibition of its kind in the southwest, are believed to have been saved. The caretakers first efforts were for these animals, scores of which were turned loose to run as they pleased through the stockyards district. Great difficulty was found after the fire in gathering them again.

The most seriously injured of those who worked to save the stock were Murray Howard and L. E. Walton. The latter, pinned close to the flames by the swinging of one of the cattle gates, barely escaped in time.

The fire is believed to have been started by the carelessness of helper cooking his breakfast in one of the barns. None of the packing houses were damaged.

THREE KILLED IN ELEVATOR ACCIDENT.

St. Paul, Minn., March 14.—Two girls and a man were killed, one girl fatally hurt and several others injured in an elevator accident in the wholesale fur house of Gordon and Ferguson today.

The elevator fell four floors. The dead and injured were pinioned in wreckage at the bottom of the shaft.

Mason Johnson, the elevator operator, told Coroner Jones that when he closed the gates after discharging passengers at the fourth floor the elevator started to slip down. The clutch failed to work. The elevator gathered momentum and when it struck the bottom of the shaft the counterbalance weight at the top dropped.

physician. The students will enter by way of the south porch. In addition there are several patient's rooms on this floor. On the second floor there are patient's rooms, toilets, baths, etc., the arrangement of all the rooms being practically the same. There is also an open porch on the south for pneumonia patients.

The entire third floor, with the exception of a kitchen, dining room and toilet rooms, will be used for storage rooms. These storage rooms are nicely fitted up and in case of an epidemic could be used as wards. The floors of the kitchen and dining room are of hardwood and in keeping with the rooms on the first and second floors. A dumb waiter is arranged for sending cooked food to any floor, while the dining room will be for the use of diet patients. There is also a freight elevator adjoining for the purpose of carrying heavy articles to the several floors. The passenger elevator is operated by water and is near the front of the building.

The annex is fitted similar to the main building, there being twelve rooms for patients. These are so arranged that two rooms can be entirely cut off from the remainder of the building. The sun parlors between the building and the annex are enclosed with glass and are for patients who wish to enjoy the sunshine without exposing themselves to the air.

The plans for the building were drawn by Hook & Rogers, of Charlotte, and the building was erected by the Central Carolina Construction Company, of this city. The furnishings will be installed by the Huntley-Stockton-Hill Company.

As To Improving the Court House.

I see in this morning's Telegram your article on the annex to the court house, improvements very greatly needed, especially if thereby the court room is moved westward and a solid wall, or partition running north and south, east side 10 or 15 feet wide to break off the street car and other noise from the court room. But what I wanted to say, is the necessity of a better and larger "clock" and much larger bell. When I bought that clock and bell some thirty years ago it was then ample for the size of the town, but we have grown to such dimensions that there is but few citizens that can hear it strike or hear the bell ring, and why not when one improvement is going on, the other also. I see July 22, 1909, I put a catalogue and letter from the makers of this clock in the hands of Mr. Michaux, clerk of the board, but have not heard whether any decision.

Please interest yourselves in this matter also and let's see if something can't be done.
